To My Annasi and Kadalagotu Friends...

Annasi and Kadalagotu comes to the literary calendar of Sri Lanka once again.

The theme is the same, an uncomplicated gathering of people who love and worship the written and spoken prose/poetry of Sri Lanka. It is tri-lingual and poured through carefully selected panels that are facilitated by competent moderators.

On stage would be the veterans and so would be the new comers. That is the theme, to give an opportunity to a wider range of authors and poets to make the festival colourful with experience and vibrant with new faces.

A special welcome is extended to the school children who participate in the 'poem of the year' competition.

It is with great joy we initiated this program as encouraging children to write has been a paramount theme in Annasi & Kadalagotu.

Sometimes people have been asking why Annasi& Kadalagotu?

Well, the name defines what this is all about. Simple and tasty and straight from the pavement. Nothing fancy, but we will do our best to dish out a concoction that will serve a different taste to different ages and in three different languages.

Blue skies...

It's back! This time spanned over two days following the crazy outpouring of accolades we received after last year's inaugural event. This became surreal when I met the organizers of the Jaipur Lit Fest this year and learnt that they were aware of the AK LitFest. Frankly, I was stunned.

The AK LitFest remains true to its core mission to provide a platform for readers, writers and publishers to meet and engage in honest discussion and exchange of ideas. A platform for local authors and local publishers, to promote the Sri Lankan identity. We will continue to be an affordable festival attracting the everyday reader, and bringing together literary enthusiasts from all walks of life.

We welcome Sampath Bank PLC and Jetwing Hotels, who have come forward to help us keep the flame we lit last year, blazing brighter. A big thank you to our Festival partners as well for all the support. We are pleased to have PawPrint Publishing, Perera & Hussein, M D Gunasena and Vijitha Yapa joining us once again at our publishers' clinic, and welcome Vijitha Yapa, M D Gunasena and Deen the Bookman back at the book stalls. We would also like to thank all our anonymous benefactors for their assistance towards making the Lit Fest a reality.

We hope you enjoy the programme this year, and see you back in 2017!

The Rotary Club of Colombo Regency is glad to be a partner in bringing forth the A&K LitFest in its second year.

Rotary International - a volunteer service organization, asks its members to focus on a variety of programme areas. Literacy and basic education is one such service area, and we are delighted to be a part of this festival that creates an interest in literature, and provides opportunities for up coming creative writers to present their work to a large audience for acceptance, at no cost to them.

The theme for Rotarians this year is 'to be a gift to the world'. Opening the door to literature is a true gift that will perpetuate, and we are are thankful to the Organizers for their exhaustive work in presenting the LitFest this year on a bigger scale, and are happy to partner with them to present this event.

Profiles

of the Panelists, Presenters & Moderators
(in alphabetical order)

Aman Ashraff

A self-confessed coffee addict, an avid cinephile and hardcore comicoholic, Aman's passion for his brands is only rivaled by the love for his family and friends. A qualified Television Producer, Aman has also been serving in the capacity of an Advisory Board Member at the Nashville Film Institute (USA), since 2008.

With over 18 years of experience in the leading international advertising agencies of Sri Lanka before setting up his own shop, this strategic thinker has struck metal internationally at Adfest and Spikes Asia, while locally at The Chillies and SLIM Awards. He is presently a Board Member of the Sri Lankan Chapter of the 4As (Association of Accredited Advertising Agencies)

Ameen Sha Al Hameed

An English teacher, was a student of English Language and Literature at the University of Kelaniya. Speaks Tamil, Sinhala and English. Interested in poetry and prose.

Anthony Jeewa

Anthony Jeewa is one of the well-known writers whose origins are from Sri Lanka's hill country. He is the editor of Kozhundhu magazine and his contribution to Tamil magazines and drama is invaluable. He is currently working on publishing yet to be published works from the hill Country.

He has written his life experiences in the name of Oru Vaanampaadiyin Kadhai in Jeevanadhi and is the author of several books including Thirundhiya Asogan and Oru Vaanampaadiyin Kadhai (Thun Kadhai), both published in 2014.

Details of Anthony Jeeva can be found in the Noolgam site.

Arun Dias Bandaranaike

Professional radio and TV presenter on the national channels, with around two and a half decades of having been a presenter, interview host and moderator. Is also known as a professional emcee at numerous state and corporate events and conferences.

Ashan Jayatilaka

Ashan first developed a love for writing while still in school. He created his own imaginary world, writing short stories for fun and making characters out of friends and teachers to escape from the boredom of solving mathematical equations in class. His debut novel – Tristan's Conquest: Knights of Olympus, is the first of a fantasy trilogy with a Sri Lankan protagonist and inspired by Greek Mythology, which went on to win the State

Literary Award for Best English Novel in 2015.

He is currently working on the sequel. With his flair for writing, Ashan works as a Corporate Communications Specialist.

Ashok Ferrey

Ashok is the author of five books, four of them shortlisted for the Gratiaen Prize, and the fifth for the State Literary Award. Sadly, nothing ever won, so always the bridesmaid, never the bride. He read Pure Mathematics at Oxford University, and was a builder in London before becoming a writer.

He is currently a guest lecturer at the Colombo School of Architecture where he lectures unsuspecting students on the glories of Western architecture. Luckily for him, they know even less than he does. By day, Ashok is a personal trainer to the rich and infamous of Colombo.

Ayathurai Santhan

He has authored two novels, Rails Run Parallel, which shared the Fairway National Literary Award, 2015, and The Whirlwind, both short listed for the Gratiaen Literary Prize (2009 and 2014) and three collections of short stories In Their Own Worlds, (State Literary Award 2000), The Sparks, and The Northern Front and a prose poetry collection, Survival and Simple Things. An outstanding writer in Tamil as well and an engineer by profession, Santhan lives in Jaffna.

Bharathi Irajayayam

Bharathi Irajayayam who is the editor of the Sunday Thinakkural has more than 25 years experience in the field of journalism. Bharathi who worked for the Eelamurasu and the Murasoli news papers was forced to leave Jaffna and come to Colombo and work for the Veerakesari news paper. He later joined the Thinakkural.

The historical series he wrote on the ethnic Conflict of Sri Lanka, while at Veerakesari, has earned him a unique place as a political columnist.

He is the secretary of the Tamil Media Association of Sri Lanka and has earned a name for himself as someone who raises his voice for the rights of the journalists. Bharathi served as its president for a long period of time.

Biman Kasun Wimalaratne

Biman is an actor, a salesman and an aspiring writer whose works are still in the works. He is an extrovert who revels in public speaking. He has a zest for discussions and has worked alongside local and international directors, moderating in many forums. He is excited and honoured to be working with Ashok Ferrey at the A&K Lit Fest, one of Sri Lanka's most engaging and popular authors.

His belief, "everything in moderation, even moderation". Peace.

Brandon Damian Ingram

Brandon is a storyteller, inspirational speaker, creative strategist and shameless romantic who currently resides in Colombo. He is the Founder of Brand On Thinking — a series of workshops designed to challenge cultural, social, and personal preconceptions through the principles of perspective and thought evolution.

Brandon has eleven years of experience developing effective communication for both local and international brands and a little over nine years of experience in theatre. He is a singer, lyricist, and novelist whose books are published by the Perera-Hussein Publishing House, and are available in both Sri Lanka and Singapore.

Capt Elmo Jayawardena

Winner of the Gratiaen Prize, State Literary Award and short listed to Singapore Literary award, for three different books. Recipient of 'Sahityaratna' award for contributions to English Literature. Founder/President of CandleAid Lanka, a Moratuwa based humanitarian organisation. 'Everyday Hero' award from Reader's Digest for working with people in need.

Among other things, flew aeroplanes for more than four decades as an international Captain and now trains pilots for the Boeing Co in their Singapore campus. At heart, and in total commitment, a Sri Lankan.

Chamara Peiris

Chamara Peiris is popular in the local teledrama industry as a Teledrama Director & Scriptwriter with a different dimension. His first teledrama Ayal (2010), became a hit, grabbing the state honours for best direction and best teledrama.

His media career of 17 years started at Lake House, where he served for 11 years. He has experience as an International Media Correspondent, Journalist, Graphic Designer, Chartered Landscape Architect and Programme Producer. Having graduated from the Moscow Architecture Academy and University of Moratuwa as a Landscape Architect, he currently serves as the Director- Programming at Stein Studios – Capital Maharaja Organization. He is also a media consultant and a visiting lecturer at the Sri Palee Campus, University of Colombo..

Chandini Rajaratnam

Better known as C, she started working as a Computer Programmer and Systems Analyst and found her true love, advertising, quite by chance. There was no stopping C since then, from a trainee writer to Vice President, Chief Creative Officer JWT Colombo and member of JWT's South Asian Creative Council.

As a highly respected advertising professional, she has been invited to be a jury member at many local and international Awards.

C was the recipient of the 'Zonta Woman of Achievement 2009' and named 26th most powerful woman in business by Echelon magazine in 2014. She received the Gold award for Professional & Career Women Awards 2014 in the Advertising Category. Art TV featured her on their programme 'Pride of Sri Lanka'.

Charu Thewarathanthri

Charu Thewarathanthri never intended to write books. A civil engineering graduate from the University of Moratuwa, she is a stay-at-home mother of four, who once taught Physics and Mathematics to A/L students at the British School and St Thomas' College, Mt Lavinia.

She first began writing after the loss of her father, Mr Tissa Abeysekera, who himself was an Author. Her first novel Autumn Leaves was shortlisted for the 2011 Gratiaen Awards.

Chris Tilaka Sri Dharmakirti

Chris Tilaka Sri Dharmakirti's illustrious career in the media industry covers the entire gamut, having entered the sector with print Journalism in Sri Lanka in 1982. In 1984 he was the youngest person to be appointed as the Asia Pacific Editor for a New York publication.

His media industry exposure led him to the advertising industry where he won many international awards including the best Copywriter award at the London International Awards.

He subsequently worked at DDB NEEDHAM, as the creative director for new business development in Asia, and during his tenure, DDB NEEDHAM Hong Kong won the Best Advertising Agency in the World Award. Chris then went on to launch the world's first instore television network in Hong Kong

His passion for innovation and development of new business models and technologies landed him a job at Intel Capital, where he was put in charge of an investment fund to back internet and broadband.

He continues to maintain his media industry and venture capital links internationally and is quite active on social media as a founder moderator of several discussion groups.

Daya Dissanayake

An award winning bi-lingual author, the only Sri Lankan to have won the State Literary Award for English Novel thrice. He won it for the first time in 1998 for Kat Bitha which was his first novel. Eavesdropper won the award in 2007, and Miracle Under the Kumbuk Tree in 2013. His The Saadhu Testament is the first electronic novel by an Asian Author. He followed it up by releasing Wessan Novu Wedun also as an e-novel thus becoming the first to publish a Sinhala electronic novel. Both books are available for free online reading at this website - <http://www.saadhu.com/>

He shared the Swarna Pusthaka Award for the Best Sinhala novel 2007 for Chadraratnage Bhavantara Charikava.

Delon Weerasinghe

Delon Weerasinghe has written professionally for the stage, print, screen, web and radio. Best known perhaps as a playwright, his play 'Thicker than Blood' won the Gratiaen prize in 2005.

Delon has written commissioned work for The Royal Court Theatre in London and BBC World Service radio. A filmmaker by profession, his screenwriting credits are varied from children's comedies to corporate videos to documentaries on violence against women.

He has also contributed to many national and international newspapers and magazines and was also responsible for the creation and management of WriteClique.net, the British Council's writing website.

In recent years, he has conducted many successful workshops on creative writing and writing for theatre and television in both English and Sinhala.

Dharmasiri Bandaranayake

Kala Suri Dharmasiri Bandaranayake is a Sri Lankan film director and playwright. His debut Hansa Vilak in 1980 dealt with facets of a society at odds with itself. His other films like Thunveni Yamaya (1983), Suddilage Kathaawa (1984), Bawa Duka and Bawa Karma (1997) followed similar themes. Bawa Duka and Bawa Karma challenged the repressive dogma of Buddhism in Sri Lanka.

Common arcs in Bandaranayake's films follow the conflicted lives of men and women, transformation of private lives into public affairs, the unpleasant reality of marriage and society and the dark side of human desire.

Dharmasiri Bandaranayake is an acclaimed dramatist. Eka Adhipathi, Makarakshaya, Dhawala Bheeshana, Yakshagamanaya and Trojan Kanthavo have all dealt with current issues of national and political importance.

Ransley Burrows

Writer, thinker, autodidact, ad man, and master of cock and bull – Ransley Burrows is a Senior Creative Director at Phoenix Ogilvy with over 15 years of experience in advertising. Ransley believes advertising is about good storytelling. "A story is an analogous device that creates a virtual reality. I believe that books are the original Oculus Rifts. Every story has a voice that teleports the listener to an alternate universe, where circumstances and issues press upon the listener making him or her smile, tear, fear, love or hate. People connect with feelings, not with plots. They buy into an emotion they can relate to. Because it is emotions that feed man's atavistic hunger for life."

Thuwan Halfleen Packer Dawood (a.k.a. Deen the Bookman)

Deen the Bookman, a bookshop and a book lending centre, is run by Thuwan Halfleen Packer Dawood, who is a Legend in his own right. His involvement in books started way back in 1978 when he was working for Peter's Bookshop in Maradana. After 6 years of working for someone else, his entrepreneur skills, coupled with his love for books got the better of him, and encouraged by his customers, he launched his own book store in Maradana. From then on there was no looking back.

He is now a very much sought after figure by many a die-hard second hand book aficionado. His book store has a vast selection of books, from run-of-the-mill Mills & Boon to obscure medical journals.

Recently he relocated his book store to Wellawate and he also operates out of the Good Market which takes place every Thursday and Saturday. He attributes his success to the personal interest he takes in his customers' requirements. For him customer is king, and he goes that extra mile to find out what his customers 'dig' and leaves no stone unturned to appease their specific need.
